

MISS A. M'LAY WINS AUTO--3,000 SUBSCRIBERS ADDED TO BULLETIN LISTS

Vermilion Girl Captures Handsome Motor Car After Hard Fought Contest

Leon D. Bias, of Edmonton, and Miss Vivian Lake of Wetaskiwin, won the Beautiful Player Pianos—Diamond Rings go to Miss McCarron, of Stettler, and A. R. Lawrence, of Edmonton.

At 8 o'clock the ballot box was turned over to the judges, W. A. Milne, secretary of the Edmonton Club, and F. G. McMurtry, of the McMurtry Brothers' Garage. It was locked early yesterday morning and most of the contestants called during the day at places where they were staying together with their last lists of subscribers, and the belated subscribers were held in suspense.

A score or more of the contestants were present when the results were announced and judges took out the ballots. A few of these contestants remained at the Bulletin office and waited for the results. Some, however, left, others contented themselves with calling up by telephone from their homes.

It was expected that the results would be known by noon, but the contest was so interesting that the newspapermen had to wait longer. Contests had been more than half over when the results were known. There was a great deal of excitement, and the handsomest piano was not won until the last minute. It was ten thirty o'clock when the results were read to the workers.

The contestants were very philosophical about the results. All the workers who were waiting to hear the news were anxious to know the results and showed the same spirit that was manifested throughout the competition. The workers were greatly gratified by the losses and all were heartily in their approval of the fair manner in which the competition had been conducted.

There was no shifting of schedules and the results of the contests were outlined in the beginning and adhered to to the letter. Every worker was given an equal chance. Very little time was lost in the awards, as each was announced at the moment it was won. The scale of values was high, but Bias said it was later, and it was announced at the opening that such would be the case. The closing date of the competition was announced as December 22, and

CONTEST MANAGERS GO NEAR TO SPEAK
Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Mood and Mr. G. C. Jackson successfully conducted the Bulletin's circulation contest, and were warmly and sincerely thanked by successful and unsuccessful contestants alike for the care and trouble which they carried out this morning for the workers, and they will conduct a similar contest for the Spokesman-Review.

The show was at exactly the hour officially appointed.

The prizes in the competition day on exhibition from the first day of the contest were the McLaughlin-Buick car, the McLaughlin-Buick car was inspected by hundreds of the workers and the handsomest piano was inspected at the Masterplayer house on Jas. H. Ross street.

Prizes in the contest were also awarded by the workers at Jackson Brothers' beautiful store on Jasper Avenue, and the workers made many inquiries about the scholarships which are good for tuition in any department of the famous school. The next term opens early in January.

HARD WORK WON THE BIG PRIZE

Miss McLay Gives Formula For Success in Bulletin Contest

Overwhelmed with congratulations from friends and relatives, but not too embarrassed by the thought of suddenly finding herself famous, Miss McLay, of Vermilion, the winner of the handsome first prize of a McLaughlin-Buick automobile in the Bulletin's circulation contest, has right now the satisfaction of her success to a Bulletin interviewer.

There was no lack about it at all, she declared. It was the hardest kind of work." And then she told with all due frankness how she had worked for six weeks through the northern part of the province, from Calgary on the south to the far north as she could reach, writing every day of her progress and of her success to a Bulletin interviewer.

There were some nights when she did not sleep, and she was the good "drummer" that she was her first thought was of her ambition which was to help the workers, and to help out every other aspirant. She found it very difficult to cover some of the towns, as the roads were bad and in getting over the ground with the least possible delay she had some strenuous work.

On one occasion on the Vermilion trail, she travelled on a hand car for miles, and when she got off, she had to walk, not being cold enough to cause any discomfort; and there was an added thrill when she rode on the pilot train, as she was the only woman. Every prospective subscriber should have a chance to "come through" The fact that she is well known along the

Miss McLay has desires to thank all her friends who registered her so generously with subscriptions to The Bulletin in its circulation contest which closed last night.

C.N.R. railway, her father being foreman of bridges and buildings for that company, helped her considerably in her work, although he was relieved of his duties in the construction of Edmonton had many difficulties.

During the period in the contest a $5 subscription yielded 2,600 votes and dividing the second place in the same amount yielded 2,868 votes. By dividing this number into the total vote of the contest, it was determined that she could not have had any influence in the result.

The Bulletin is highly appreciative of the efforts of the contest workers.

Many of the contestants made themselves remarkable, showing that they occupied what could work out their immediate independence.

This was especially true of workers in outside territory, who were not able to get work, and yet put forth the effort in the hope of getting a job.

"What will I do with the automobile?" she re-echoed. "Sell it? Not at all. I intend to keep it for my own use, and for the benefit of the many happy hours in the handsome automobile."

The automobile was competed for by all contestants. One piano player was awarded in the city and one to outside workers. The piano player was for city workers and one for outside workers, also one scholarship for ten dollars was awarded to an outside worker. The four Montreal trips were for districts one, two, three and four. The trip was won by Almonie of Edmonton. District two was South Edmonton, and Namsay Avenue, dist. 3, all the city of Fort Saskatchewan, and dist. 4, Fort Macleod. Consequently prizes were won in some instances by contestants whose names were not on the list, because of other contestants who lived in districts where the district prizes were won by a heavy vote.

BULLETIN CIRCULATION LIST SWELLED BY MORE THAN 3,000

More than 3,000 new subscribers were added to the circulation of The Bulletin, the day after the contest, which closed at 8 o'clock last night.

The contest opened on November 21, with the announcement that more than $100 worth of prizes would be given away in the big circulation contest.

For a time the contestants were lukewarm and did not display much interest, but as the contest progressed greater interest in the competition and the results of the contest were shown.

Prizes, as The Bulletin did not realize how many subscriptions were held in the community.

NOTICE
The contest was more successful in the end than in the beginning, and the results were more than expected.

More than 3,000 new subscribers were added to the circulation of The Bulletin, the day after the contest, which closed at 8 o'clock last night.

Practically every town of any size in Central and Northern Alberta, and in the West Indies, in the contest by worker and subscriber of Edmonton had many entries.

"A Reader" writes to know what was done for a lady for Christmas. Books, music, and a basket of dried fruit, I daresay. They cover a wide and delightful range—and such gift must be prepared by a good woman. As an even instance, circumstances alter cases, depending entirely upon the weather and how long you have known the person. No matter how formal the relations are, you cannot make a mistake in sending a basket of the old-time three mentioned.

As soon as the little people came in they were all delighted, including, of course, the ladies.

But, of course, the joyousness was immediate, and most of the surprises followed. The long tables were brimming with delicious refreshments, the Christmas tree glistening with snow.

The "grown-ups" too, had a charming frolics that afterwards in the music room and white drawings room, the girls sat down to dispensing hospitalities.

This ordinary number of hot meals, two vegetables, with a choice of meat, cost fifteen cents, while an extra five cents pay for a good bowl of soup.

QUEEN PUSSY

MARLBOROUGH CLUB

London, Dec. 22.—The Prince of Wales' scheme to man a junior Marlborough club has been nipped in the bud, but the young royals are to be a coterie of young royalties and their particular friends and a press corps comprising the Prince of Wales, the hereditary Duke of Marlborough, Sir George Curzon, and others of the Queen's private secretary.

When the Queen heard of the plan, she said it was a good idea.

The scheme accordingly has been dropped for the present, and the prince will be entertained at his club with which each room is furnished, and which is to be his home.

He will be the club's treasurer, and the committee are anxious to have him as a member.

King Edward is to be the president.

TUESDAY, DECEMBER 22, 1913.

With the buying public rest the question of whether the tired shop-girl will have a "Christ-mas" or a headache on Thursday.

A child whose Santa Claus has missed is a pitiful spectacle on Christmas morning. There is yet time to avert the calamity. The United Aids will do the rest if the public provide the where-withal.

The Duke of Bedford is still unloading his London property. It is understood he will invest the proceeds in Canada. Telegrams sent in care of the Alberta commissioners in London will no doubt be forwarded. They should be prompt, however.

The Journal declines to discuss the responsibility of the attorney general or the chief of police for the failure to capture McNealy's murderer. It says what it objects to was the arrangement that the police have made with the devil if he had also robbed a bank. Well, perhaps that was a too creditable supposition. From the records the chances are they wouldn't have caught him if he had looted the parliament buildings and toted off the spoils in the police patrol wagon.

An Ottawa dispatch says the Government have decided to have the cost of living investigated, and have appointed a committee of civil servants to do it. The arrangement has the obvious advantage that if the commissioners bring in the kind of report that is not wanted they can be fired. That is to say, they are not at all likely to do anything of the kind. Let us hope the commissioners may as much as expect from this commission as from one consisting of the Ministers themselves. How much that is may be gathered from the fact that only men over whose heads the Ministers can hold a club are to be allowed to sit on the board. Barring the possibility that the commissioners may be willing to sacrifice themselves in the public interest, their report may be forecasted as a long-considered but pre-ordained conclusion that the tariff has nothing to do with the case.

Premier Scott withdrew the bill which would let the people of Saskatchewan vote on whether or not they wanted the bar continued as a legalized institution in that Province. He explained that the "temperance leaders" refused to accept the clause which required a total of 50,000 votes polled to make the verdict effective, and accepted 40,000 votes, with some evident unwillingness, that was useless to expect the vote to show in any definite and reliable way the real concensus of public opinion. That being the case, of course the bill is better dead, and the temperance people of the provinces owe the Premier a debt of gratitude for saving them from the trouble which lack of confidence on the part of their leaders would have undoubtedly brought upon them. But it is up to the leaders in question to show why they allowed a want of faith to kill the proposal. The population of Saskatchewan was 453,000 in 1911. It does not seem unreasonable to demand a total vote of one-half the population before accepting the majority vote as the voice of the people. If those who preferred to drop the proposal rather than accept this apparently reasonable condition wish to be taken seriously hereafter they had better get out with some convincing explanations, and do it now.

When heirs fall out then law, when get their dues.

Calgary's street railway earned about a thousand dollars last month. Edmonton's system lost thirteen thousand. There is a problem here for the incoming council to think over in the meantime.

A resolution evidently intended to look like exemplified education has been introduced in the Manitoba Legislature. The jolly-hog Premier must have got a jolt, which disturbed his congratulated indifference.

Having invited the question, the Journal fails to reply whether or not this thinks blame attaches to the attorney general or the chief of police, or to either of them. The murderer has not been brought to trial. That seems a trifle cold, doesn't it, on the part of a "journal," and an "opposition" journal at that?

A Conservative member wants the Manitoba Legislature to urge the Dominion Government to allow the free entry of Canadian wheat to the United States. How many wagons are there in the prairies? Winnipeg the night the resolution was published. The member in question had better prepare for the worst. Boiling oil or something of a "lingering" character is likely to come his way.

While the First Lord and the Secretary of War dispute themselves, Lloyd-George continues to give frequent exhibitions of oratorical aeronautics with what his opponents call an "inflated" land reform scheme. Whatever be their political failings, unwillingness to keep the public reminded of their existence is not one of the weaknesses of the Asquith Ministers.

One guess is that the C. P. R. will use the $42,600,000 proceeds of the new note issue to buy a railway entrance into New York. It is only a guess, but there will be nothing surprising in the event that it turn out to be the correct one. That trading with the "Yankees" is a dangerous and disloyal business was thought best to be left enough to whet the appetite to fatten the farmers. Business men have never paid attention to it. The C. P. R. has consistently and energetically proceeded on the exactly opposite idea, and is likely to keep on doing so for the same reasons. And the C. P. R. is right.

Ex-Senator STEYN, of the Orange Free State, has joined forces with the anti-British party against the Botha Government. Mr. Steyn is the man who wiped the Orange Free State out of existence by plunging it into war with a country which had no cause nor intention of making war upon it. It is quite likely, too, that Mr. Steyn, who has always been a friend of Kruger, would have compromised with the Outlanders in the Transvaal and, so preserved the independence of his republic also. While the Free State is now generally supposed to be due but not delivered, a provincial week-end is to be held in Cape Town next Saturday last, at least one of the ports, just imported from the old country at a cost of $12, not being intended for running on all.

While the Red Man is reported as preparing to attack the white, he is now generally supposed to be due but not delivered, a provincial week-end is to be held in Cape Town next Saturday last, at least one of the ports, just imported from the old country at a cost of $12, not being intended for running on all.

There is nothing remarkable in the fact that a Conservative member of the Manitoba Legislature wants his colleagues to urge the Dominion Government to allow the free entry of wheat to the United States except that the urging is necessary. Free entry of Canadian farm products to the United States markets has been a cardinal principle of Conservative politics ever since fiscal policies forced us to take share in the newly created Dominion. It is still a principle whose validity is not questioned by Conservatives who shape their opinions from the traditional viewpoint of their party. That such Conservatives find it necessary to urge this principle upon the cabinet at Ottawa only means that the cabinet has lost its policy of the Conservative party. The Government is a hybrid creation of Conservatives who threw their party's principles to the wind and of Liberals who left their party because it would not do likewise. Its strength lies in the unnatural alliance of extreme Imperialist, ultraconservative, free-trading, aristocratic, domineering, and in the fact that both have been made the temporary associates and chore-boys of those whose interest it is to restrict the trade of the country to their own railway lines, factories and warehouses. The Government can only unit until this artificial combination of the two is broken.

The signs are that the breakaway is not far distant. The cost of living is pressing upon the Conservative consumer just as severely as upon the Liberal. The restriction of the farmer's selling privilege is cheating the Conservative farmer just as readily and just as much as the Liberal farmer. To suppose that the Conservative farmer is a fanatical, uncompromising, uncompromisingly willing to submit permanently to spoliation in the interests of a few factory-owners and railway magnates is to expect the impossible. One proof of this unwillingness is the resolution proposed in the Manitoba Legislature by a Conservative member of that House.

"At half time the honors stood, Viking 2, Holden 1." During the half-time the Holden boys were on the chase, and Viking scored a few points while the boys went to him to put a prairie fire. The latter were said to have been rather "hot" on the trail.

A skating party on the Beaver Dam at Leslieville was scattered -- have been scattered -- when a jagged iron bar was thrown through the ice. The piece which made all the boys go with him to put a prairie fire. The latter were said to have been rather "hot" on the trail.

Final figures supplied in regard to the recent crop in the lands of the Wood Estate company at Wanamaker show an average yield of 47 bushels to the acre, and the average wheat came out nearly 69 bushels to the acre.

The latest news of the Holden party indicates that one of the hard-hitters was going to have a hard time explaining to a Justice of the peace how no rotted 20 bushel of oats from the ground could be sold on the market at 67 bushels and still had 20 bushels to sell. No doubt, like most arithmetic, the result of the subtraction will prove to be quite simple.

Five hundred dollars worth of turkeys, geese, ducks and chickens came to an untimely rest in a fire at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. T. Toshell last week, at least one of the birds, just imported from the old country at a cost of $12, not being intended for running on all.

While the Red Man is reported as preparing to attack the white, he is now generally supposed to be due but not delivered, a provincial week-end is to be held in Cape Town next Saturday last, at least one of the ports, just imported from the old country at a cost of $12, not being intended for running on all.

Shipping bags to Edmonton is not always an easy job, even after the arrival of the new port. Mr. T. H. Toshell had a bunch of them aboard a car at an Alberta depot, but before he could get them off the car he had to unload them so often to give them a ride that they became quite wet. The bags were to be sent to the boys in the train, when they would all come running and claim their cars.

This boy who has his school bag in a cow is a very useful animal with a leg at each corner was right enough in main, but there will be a time when it is not. If a certain Viking chief manages to get his cowhead. His legs have been carefully counted, and there are not of them.

PERFUMES vs. DIAMONDS

Perfumes are the rivals of diamonds in present making. More presents are made with perfume than with diamonds, and, while not as lasting, are just as fully appreciated.

Perfumes are always a safe present to give. At the Royal Drug Co., there is always a safe present to buy, for our stock is entirely new.

Industrial Commissioner Hall Returns After Extensive Trip Through the East

BUSINESS CONDITIONS IN STATES IS VERY BAD

While in New York and Chicago He Said Cost Engineering Systems

(From Evening Edition)

After a week in the East, spending a journey of close to two thousand miles, Industrial Commissioner Hall returned to the city Sunday night and was at his office bright and early this morning. Mr. Hall had visited Chicago, Detroit, Boston, Providence, New York, Washington, and numerous state and business organizations, doing some publicity work and collecting information and reliable cost engineering systems to be used in Edmonton.

"No person in Western Canada has any cause for complaint," is Mr. Hall's conclusion, after seeing con-

Chicago made a big showing at both shows. Mr. Hall, with Hon. Dan R. McLean, president of the Canadian department of the interior at Ottawa, addressed the British Empire Club in the evening. In the back room of the Chicago, P. H. Hart, president of the convention of free employment agencies here, told of the great depression in labor in Illinois, was advocating the throwing open of all the public relief bureaus to help the unemployed. The situation in Chicago is rather aggravated. It is estimated that there are more than fifty thousand men this winter who not only would be willing to work, but who would not care much for work if they could get it. Most of them seem to believe they will be able to live on the public dole. I have seen this prize go to stores that I thought did not deserve it; but we already have come and the rest will follow.

"I have been fully paid in Glencairn Victor II, the Brandon and St. Vital areas,

In Washington a similar condition exists, and the business interests there are complaining considerably over the economic condition of the country. This is having a bad effect on business temporarily at least.

"Travel on the railroads in the States is east," continued Mr. Hall. "In Washington, however, the business interests there are going to any other direction. The railways are complaining as to the amount of traffic they are getting.
